Governor's Message To Be Formal Start Of Session This Evening

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

HARRISBURG, June 27.—Pennsylvania's legislators rode into Harrisburg today on the wave of an ever-mounting sentiment for economy.

Senators and house members by the score will go into a second extra-ordinary session of the general assembly tonight armed with pruning knives and a grim determination to slash mercilessly at state government expenditures.

The sentiment was evident from the time the earlier arrivals reached the Capital yesterday and the movement surged forward steadily, looking to its crest when the first bill to balance the budget and provide unemployment relief funds are introduced tonight.

Several independent and smaller groups were aligned and boldly planned to start the reducing process from within by proposing $500 cuts in legislators' salaries. This stroke was designed to put a keen-

PA NEW OBSERVES

"All Gas Trucks Stop Here" is the prominent sign to be seen at the Pennsylvania and Ohio state line since the state gasoline tax was passed. A check must be made on every gallon of gasoline entering and leaving the state. It means an extra job for the highway patrol.

The elaborate "SLOW" sign painted in large black and white letters on a cement retaining wall at the New Bedford curve is being covered by a well-meaning vine.

That little park on Croton avenue is a rather restful looking place and since the benches have been erected at the tree bases it is being used by quite a number of people.

There were a couple of striking warnings for safety in auto travel along the Slippery Rock to Franklin highway, yesterday. Two burned up autos or trucks were lying along the highway, indicating the finale of an auto collision.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION IS DIVIDED INTO SNARLING FACTIONS

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 27.—The Democrats went into their national convention today split into snarling factions and with bitterness on all sides.

The anti-Roosevelt allies were striving desperately to hold their lines intact, and the forces behind the New York governor were moving heaven and earth to break into the favorite son delegations for enough votes to send Roosevelt over on the first ballot.

No First Ballot Choice
It did not appear this morning, after a hectic night of state caucuses, that the Roosevelt managers could get the votes for a first ballot nomination—especially if it is to be attained by the traditional two-thirds route, over which every Democratic presidential nominee since Andrew Jackson has travelled.

"It is Roosevelt on the first ballot by two-thirds (770 votes) or we will smash the rule and make it by a majority (578) vote," was the warning conveyed by the Roosevelt managers.

They were openly using the threat of the rule revision as a club to whip the wavering into line. And in many instances it was keenly resented.

Missouri May Shift
The pivotal point of the Roosevelt assault was the Missouri delegation of 36 votes, committed to the candidacy of Ex-Senator James A. Reed. The Governor's managers were boring from within the delegation to cause it to abandon the white hair-

Underwood Boomer In 1924 Is Back; Likes Roosevelt

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, June 27.—The voice that boomed into a million homes with unforgettable thunder in 1924 is going to boom in the same old way in 1932, the owner of the voice—W. W. Brandon of Alabama—declared today. The "24 votes Underwood" man, again chairman of his state delegation, is all set to shout for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The women's organization for national prohibition reform concluded a poll of possible candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination today, with the result that all stood in favor of repeal. Among those canvassed were Smith, Ritchie, Trowler, Byrd and Reed.

The New York delegation is going to support "two men" in the convention. Mayor Jimmy Walker said: "People hint there is anti-Roosevelt feeling in Tammany. That is absolutely untrue. We are presenting

Resume Fill On Perry Highway

More Earth Will Be Dumped In Famous Marsh Near Sheakleyville This Week

Resumption of work on the fill, which was started two years ago near Sheakleyville on the Perry highway, will be started this week, contract for the work having been awarded to the Orla Construction Company of Pittsburgh, who in turn sublet the contract to W. L. Dunn of Cochranton.

Estimates of engineers is for a minimum of 35,000 yards of earth, but more may be required, it is stated.

Already, 200,000 yards of dirt have been dumped into the fill, which sank as fast as it could be poured for a time. Experts declared last fall that sinking had stopped, however, and the task of building up the roadway is to be resumed.

The contractor expects to unload approximately 1,000 yards of earth a day, and may put on a night shift to handle the task.

CHICAGO, June 27.—A Sunday heat in which all good Democrats sweltered was costly for Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland.

He took off his coat and hung it over a chair.

When he put it back on, he discovered that his wallet was missing.

There was $300 in the wallet.

State Delegation At Chicago Is For Outright Repeal

Delegates From Pennsylvania At Democratic Convention Demand Repeal

STATE CAUCUS IS HELD LAST NIGHT

Roosevelt Strength In State Is Revealed As Lower Than Claimed

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, June 27.—Pennsylvania's delegation to the Democratic national convention today was on record as not only favoring repeal of the 18th amendment and modification of the Volstead act but also as instructing the Pennsylvania member of the national resolutions committee to file a minority report to the floor of the convention if necessary to clarify Pennsylvania's stand.

Caucus of the delegation last night struck a blow to claims of "66 for Roosevelt" previously advanced by Joseph F. Guffey, Pittsburgh leader, when it was revealed that only 45 votes were absolutely certain for the New York executive.

Roosevelt's Strength Lower.
The Roosevelt strength was revealed when the delegation voted 45 to 28 to elect Curtis H. Gregg of Greensburg, a Roosevelt supporter, to the rules committee with three delegates absent. Gregg's opponent, George F. Whitmer of Clarion, is a supporter of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York.

The delegation went on record in

Woman Believes Man Is Better Fitted To Rule

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, June 27.—One woman here came to the Democratic national convention believing the weaker sex should remain in the political background and let men run things. She is Mrs. Emily Sharton Roosevelt, delegate from Philadelphia, and distant cousin of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

She declined to accept the unanimous offer of vice-chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation, explaining that she thought a man was better fitted for the position.

"I am an old fashioned woman when it comes to politics and I have been brought up to believe that men are the lords of creation," she said.

The Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church gave a splendid demonstration of the esteem in which they hold their teacher, Rev. George M. Landis, who is also pastor of the church, at the Sunday morning session, when 356 men assembled in the church auditorium, gorgeously decorated with summer flowers, arranged by the women of the church.

Rev. Frederick McAllister and the Men's Bible class of Youngstown Baptist Temple were present, 128 strong, with Rev. McAllister giving a ten-minute talk and the quartet of their class singing the class song and a quartet giving a number of selections.

The Harlansburg male chorus of the Baptist church sat in the choir loft and added their contribution in the form of several songs. Harry Turner and his orchestra also played.

Congregation Acts
During the morning the following resolution was read, adopted by the class unanimously, was then read at the morning service and endorsed by the congregation.

"Since it became known that our beloved pastor, Rev. George M. Landis, has tendered his resignation, there has been a feeling of deep regret at the impending loss by the members of the Men's Bible class who have been privileged for the past few years to receive such rich spiritual blessings from the faithful and intelligent expounding of the Word of God by their teacher.

It is the sincere belief of the

State Springs Surprise Move In Curtis Case

Special Prosecutor Says State May Concede Curtis' Negotiations

TRIAL OPENS IN NEW JERSEY

Colonel Lindbergh Will Likely Be Called As First Witness When Jury Is Drawn

(International News Service)
FLEMINGTON, N. J., June 27.—A dramatic surprise was sprung today by the prosecution just before the trial of John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Va. ship builder on charges of obstructing justice in the Lindbergh baby kidnap-murder investigation was opened before Judge Adam O. Robbins in the historic old court house here.

Harry Stout, special assistant prosecutor said it was probable that the state would concede Curtis may have been in actual negotiations with the baby's abductors.

In that event, Curtis will be accused of hindering the hunt for the kidnapers with the confession he signed his "negotiations" were all a hoax. A document which Curtis recently repudiated as being obtained by police under duress.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was scheduled to be the first prosecution witness, and was expected to take the stand as soon as the jury was selected, probably by this afternoon.

BANGKOK, Siam, June 27.—Organization of a new Siam proceeded peacefully today, with Princess of the blood formerly running the country locked in the royal palace and with King Prajadhipok stripped of his absolute power, aiding leaders of the people's party in forming a constitutional monarchy with limited powers of the throne.

Diplomatic circles generally believed the king was pleased with the turn of events. An apparent complete harmony prevailed between him and the leaders of Friday's revolt.

MAY COMPROMISE ON TWO THIRDS RULE FOR DEMOCRATIC SELECTION

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 27.—Highly conflicting reports were circulated today as to whether the time-honored system of requiring a two-thirds vote to decide the presidential nominee would be followed in the Democratic National Convention opening this noon.

Best judgment, despite the optimistic claims of those backing the two-thirds rule for approximately five ballots and then switch to nomination by majority vote if it became apparent an organized minority was operating to prevent a nomination.

Officially, the Roosevelt organization insisted a rule would be put through whereby a simple majority would decide President Hoover's opponent.

In the same official vein, those seeking to prevent the New York governor's nomination declared with great confidence that "abrogation" was an impossibility.

As well as Democratic noses could be counted, it appeared the anti-Roosevelt people would win something less than a hundred votes if the question came to a ballot on the floor.

The plan is to "stop" Roosevelt. Then everybody "stop" each other. At a time when the Democrats should be "starting" they are "stopping." They are trying to change the "two-thirds rule." It takes two-thirds to change it. If two-thirds of the Democrats agreed, they wouldn't be Democrats. Can't change it. The hotel men are against it.

Yours,

Will Rogers.

Convention Of Democrats Is Now In Session

Many Conflicts To Be Ironed Out By Delegates In Session

TWO-THIRDS RULE TO BE CONTESTED

Prohibition Also Matter Of Controversy—Nominees Are Uncertainty

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

STADIUM, CHICAGO, June 27.—The Democrats moved into Chicago's big stadium today for a showdown fight which they hope won't prove as hurtful to the party as some other historic conventions—but which some of them fear may prove to be just that.

They hold fights in this stadium, and this week will see a series of them, with hard blows sent and received. They will battle over the presidential nomination. They will battle over the degree of wetness to which the party is to commit itself. And equally as serious, if not more so, they will battle bitterly over whether the ultimate nominee is to be selected by the traditional two-thirds vote or a majority.

Many Rumors Afloat
There was electricity in the atmosphere as the main body of the delegates moved out of the strife-filled hotels and into the arena for the warm-up bout.

There were rumors afloat just before the savel that the Roosevelt managers were considering calling off their fight to abolish the century old two-thirds rule. They stoutly

ALUMNI PLANS AUGUR SUCCESS

What promises to be one of the big social events of the season is the reunion of the alumni of the New Castle high school when the members of the various graduating classes assemble in the Cathedral Friday evening, July 1.

From the present reservations it looks as if many of the older classes will be present 100 per cent and the reminiscences of the earlier school days will furnish many a topic of conversation about the dinner table and later in the evening.

There will be many kinds of amusements to entertain the former pupils as they gather together, those who enjoy cards will have that kind of entertainment and for the younger members there will be dancing to the strains of a good orchestra.

The committee on arrangements asks that all reservations be made early this week, before Wednesday preferably.

Ice Cream Festival Tuesday Evening

Nice juicy strawberries, cooling ice cream, topped off with a big piece of cake, will be served for 15 cents at the Cathedral Tuesday evening by the Legion of Honor. The strawberry season is almost ended, so don't neglect the opportunity.

KATHRYN EAGAN AND RUSSELL HANNON WED

One of the most elaborate of formal weddings this season was that of Kathryn Eagan and Russell Hannon, both of this city. Before a solid embankment of white delphinium, calla lilies and baby's breath, perfectly arranged flanked with large candelabras bearing lighted white candles, the ceremony was performed at 10 o'clock with the Rev. Leo Watterson officiating.

The bride, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Eagan, Croton avenue, was given in marriage by her father. She was stunning in a gown of ivory satin, extremely long, fashioned with long sleeves inserted with bands of lace. The bodice, close fitting, was made with high waistline and a band of lace inserted. Her veil of ivory tulle was cap shape with half circle of orange blossoms, and long train. She carried a Mother of Pearl prayer book, a treasured family heirloom, with white ribbon streamers and valley lilies attached.

Coupled alike in long flowing gowns of white Mousseline De Soie and embroidered organdie, with ruffled collars forming the neckline, wearing hats of Italian lace and slippers and accessories to match, the four attendants were, Miss Ann G. Eagan, sister of the bride as maid of honor, carrying a bouquet of blue delphinium, Mrs. Harold Hannon, sister-in-law of the groom as matron of honor, Miss Mae Eagan, sister of the bride and Miss Mary G. Gannon, cousin of the bride, the latter of McKeesport. They carried dainty little Nosegays of pastel shades.

Little Hannon served his brother as best man, and those acting as ushers were John Eagan, brother of the bride and Bradley McGonigle.

Nuptial High Mass was celebrated before a gathering of relatives and friends filling the church to capacity. Following, John Griffiths, uncle of the bride who is recognized for his singing ability, rendered "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" with Frank Gribbon, organist, accompanying. Other appropriate selections were given by Mr. Gribbon during the congratulatory period.

Supplementing the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held. In the receiving line with the bride party were Mrs. Eagan, the bride's mother wearing a dress of black chiffon appliqued in white wearing a shoulder corsage of white gardenias, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Hannon who made her appearance in flowered chiffon. Fifty covers were laid, the bridal table arranged for ten guests, being carried out in pretty appointments of white, and a bouquet of summer flowers in pastel shades gracing the center. On a serving table nearby, prettily decorated, was the large wedding cake of three tiers topped with a miniature bride and groom. Numerous bouquets of select flowers of the season adorned the mantelpiece and every nook of the Eagan home, making it a bower of beauty.

This also marked the thirty-first wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eagan, who took the vows of matrimony before the altar in St. Mary's church.

Madame Charlotte Griffith Ryan who is known the world over as a talented singer of New York, favored the guests with choice musical selections throughout the afternoon.

The bride is a graduate of the New Castle Senior High school class of '30 and the groom attended the same school and now holds a responsible position with the Booth Fisheries Company in Pittsburgh. Later in the day, Mr. Hannon and his bride left for a two weeks motor trip to Boston, Mass., and other places of interest. For traveling the bride chose a white sports dress with white polo coat and accessories to match. During the summer months, they will make their home with the groom's parents and in the fall take up their residence in Pittsburgh.

The Eagan home, members of the bridal party and only a few relatives being present.

The bride remembered her attendants with dainty gifts of silver and the groom presented his best man and ushers with gifts of leather.

Mrs. Hannon, an attractive young woman who is popular among the younger set, has been fitted at a series of delightful pre-wedding parties since the announcement of her betrothal early in May, and has received a large collection of beautiful and serviceable gifts. In a room adjoining the living room at the Eagan home, an array of gorgeous wedding gifts, together with the shower remembrances were displayed.

Guests from out of town witnessed the wedding which was carried out in every detail in white, making it one of the loveliest and most impressive of the season, included Madame Charlotte Griffith Ryan and Miss Mae Eagan of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Leo G. Colored Woman Asks Commissioners To Send Her Back To Native Blue Grass County commissioners were visited by a colored woman this morning who desired transportation back to her home in Kentucky. She said that she had come here with her child to visit friends, and expected to get work. She has been unsuccessful, but claimed that if she were back home, she would be taken care of until she found employment. Believing that it was better to send the woman back than to have her become a charge on the county the commissioners told her to go to the court house tomorrow evening ready to start.

Saturday a young man asked for transportation back to his home in Vermont. He claimed that he had come to New Castle expecting to get work in the tin mill, but had been disappointed. The commissioners told him that the working is good and advised him to get started.

When it is found that persons who apply for help to the county have not been here long enough to have gained a residence, they are promptly advised to return to their former homes. Some are helped to get out of town as the county has plenty to maintain without aiding persons from other places.

Plan Grading Of Sheep Hill Road

Shenango road supervisors, Smith and Kennedy, were at the county commissioners' office this morning on business connected with proposed changes of the Sheep Hill road. The supervisors are anxious to have the steep hill south of city line graded. This is one of the steepest hills in the county, and is usually quite dangerous in winter. One of the state highway officials is planned to confer with him before anything definite is done.

Agenda Group Fetes At Camp On Sunday

An entertaining sports program alternated with "Dip in the Pluvius" impromptu acts when the membership of the city's Agenda club journeyed to its outdoor retreat, Camp Agenda, located along the Neshannock creek at Neshannock Falls, for its annual picnic on Sunday.

The sports program had been planned for but the rain had not. For several hours, both before and after the delicious 7 o'clock dinner, Chairman Henry Ginsburg's staff of assistants kept the program lively. Ginsburg was generalissimo for the outing.

Several out of town friends enjoyed the annual outing.

EARLY MARRIAGES NOT SO POPULAR

CENSUS returns on marriage in this country show some interesting trends. One of these is that there is a decline in the younger age group for the first time. Naturally this shows an increase in the number of those who wait until more mature years before marching to the matrimonial altar.

We are told that in all age groups from 25 to 64 years the percentages married were higher for both sexes in 1930 than in 1920. When the census was taken two years ago it showed that there were 26,327,109 married males and 26,170,756 married females in this country. Those who persisted in single blessedness consisted of 14,953,712 men and 11,306,653 women. If all decided to marry, the supply of the fair sex would not equal the demand. Why this is thus is not explained by the census officials. As a companion picture to the totals of unmarried men and women we have an increase in the number of divorces for both sexes.

It did not require the official figures of the Census Bureau to remind most of us that the tendency toward more mature marriages has been growing in the United States. This is partly, but not entirely, due to the increasing economic independence of women. Great numbers of them start out to make "a career" for themselves. Sometimes they are successful and sometimes they are not. But in either case they take more time in selecting life partners. In some cases women are able to earn more money than men, and that makes the men reluctant to undertake the task of becoming providers for the home. It is a condition and not a theory which confronts them. Sometimes an attempt is made to overcome this difficulty by both members of the new firm continuing as wage-earners. Indeed, in some instances, it is a necessity; but the net result is a departure from the old-fashioned idea of home making.

It is hardly needful to say that the existing depression has postponed more than one intended marriage. Of course, the effect of such decisions is not shown in the census figures for 1930. With the first signs of economic improvement we may see a boom in marriages; but even in that event the percentage of more mature marriages will be increased.

HIBBEN RETIRES

There have been a few college presidents who have gained as much prominence as usually goes with high public service. One of these is John Grier Hibben, who resignation as president of Princeton University went into effect this month.

They have called him a modern paradox, perhaps because most college presidents can do only one thing well. Dr. Hibben has proved himself a specialist in many things. During his long service at Princeton he stood out as an innovator in education without being a fadist, a genius at raising million-dollar endowments, a great philosopher enriching the world's knowledge and an able executive especially fitted for his particular job because he could recognize the student as an individual instead of as a common carrier of knowledge.

Doctor Hibben is one of those rare personalities which can inspire admiration in students, win the co-operation of a large and heterogeneous faculty and win and hold the support of a vast alumni.

It is enough to say of this great educator that Princeton men will not miss so much the able administrator, not so much the thoroughgoing Princetonian, not so much the educator, but mostly John Grier Hibben will be missed.

If the Princeton trustees are seeking another Hibben to succeed their veteran president, they have hitched their wagon to a star.

SEABURY AT CHICAGO

Judge Seabury's decision to go to Chicago for the period of the Democratic national convention can mean but one thing. He is going gunning for the Tammany Tiger. There can be no other deduction in as much as he is not a candidate himself, is not a delegate and is not a supporter of Governor Roosevelt.

In Cincinnati on February 26 he stated his position and purpose: "Intoxicated by the absolute power which it exerts in the city of New York and the great influence which it exerts in the state, it now reaches out to extend its power and use its influence in support of some candidate who will be friendly to it, if indeed he does not openly wear the stripes of the Tiger. The power of Tammany Hall is not only a menace to New York City—it is a menace to the nation as well."

Should the noted inquisitor of Tammany strike at his arch-enemy it will of necessity be before the committee on resolutions, where as a conspicuous Democrat he will be privileged to appear to advocate any plank he thinks essential to the party and the nation's welfare.

If Tammany Hall is, as Judge Seabury claims, covetous of national power there is nothing it desires less than an airing of its sins before the national convention of its party. Tammany has been an issue at Democratic conventions before with results neither agreeable nor profitable to the Hall. Grover Cleveland twice furthered his own presidential nomination by attacking Tammany. Bryan took the hide off the tiger in 1912 to clinch the nomination for Wilson and the McAdooites employed the same strategy in 1924 to block the nomination of former Governor Smith.

Comparisons are odious except in nominating speeches.

They called it an "economic readjustment" a couple of years ago.

All Of Us

Just People
Tom and Dick and Jane and Ellen
All Alike?

By MARSHALL MASLIN
When Tom has troubles nobody would know it. He covers up, smiles, keeps his agonies to himself.

When Dick has troubles everybody knows it. He tells the entire world and feeds his pain on other people's sympathy.

Jane never married. She sneers at marriage. She is sour, she is eccentric.

Helen never married. She wanted to be married but nobody asked her. She is gentle. She is kind. She is unselfish.

Eleanor is married and has three children. They are the center of her life. The children come first, before her husband, before everything in the world. The older they become, the less happiness she seems to have in them.

Frances is married and has four children. She keeps them clean, happy, well-mannered, and everybody admits she is a "good mother." But she frankly admits that her husband is more important than any of her children, though she loves them deeply. Her entire family is happy.

Pete is always wondering what people are thinking about him. He is easily hurt and shows his pain. His friends feel the strain when they are with him.

Frank never seems to think about himself at all. He must, of course, but you'd never know it. It's easy, being with him.

Jack, only eight years old, is a happy child. He doesn't whine. He laughs far more than he cries. He is busy all the time. And doesn't lie.

His brother Jim, two years older, carries a chip on his shoulder. He keeps to himself and resents instruction. He is vain and timid and lies quickly though clumsily.

Dan loves power more than anything else in the world and will sacrifice anybody and all other happiness to achieve it.

Bill never thinks in terms of power. There's little calculation in him and no desire to use other people for his own ends.

Ed has intelligence, but uses little of it. Charlie has just enough intelligence and uses all of it.

Ellen wants excitement. Celia wants peace.

Harry is a "ladies' man"; men don't like him. Phil is a "man's man"; the women like him.

And yet, you are frequently hearing people say that human beings are all alike. . . . There may not be much difference between us, but the differences are astonishingly important.

FLOWER COURAGE

The little garden plot I tread
To music of the rustling leaves
At evening, as the sky grows red
My coming with delight receives.
The sad and weary world of doubt
By climbing roses is shut out.

The pretty little blossom there
Assail me with no grievous word
Of burdens difficult to bear.
Near-by there is a singing bird
Exultant that he lives to be
The happy tenant of a tree.

So still and calm the scene appears
The poonies have no woe to tell.
No rose remembers happier years
And on its drosses loves to dwell.
And yet somehow I seem to feel
Plants suffer hurts they could reveal.

The tenderest little bloom I own
Has braved the cruel winds and cold;
Has had to make its way alone.
Against destroying foes and mold
Yet nothing in my little yard
Like man cries out that life is hard.

NOT A JOKE

The practical joker is often responsible for serious disruptions in business and private life as well.

The person who states that a certain bank will be closed on a specified date is liable to cause a run on the bank mentioned.

Because a thing of such a serious nature is bound to be repeated again and again with resultant financial disaster.

Then when the date is looked up it will be found that the date mentioned is a Sunday or a holiday and of course the bank is closed.

Such a joker should be jailed. It could seem like a joke to the scatterbrained, only.

Then there is the smartly who starts the rumor that the So-and-So bank closed its doors today.

Of course it did, all banks close their doors every day at the usual time.

But before his joke becomes known as a bit-wit statement much alarm has been caused, and depositors worried and bankers harassed.

In all states there are heavy penalties awaiting the one who is responsible for any statement that causes a run on a bank.

And the law should not be tempered with meek.

With Cut In Expected Surplus Wheat Becomes Influential

Reduced Crop and Better Position For Farm Board Holdings Attract Much Attention With Possibility That Grain May Lead Return To Normal

Prospects of a reduced wheat crop and efforts to employ the limited accumulations of the Farm Board for relief, linked with world conditions, create a new position for that commodity and arouse interest in its relation to general conditions. It is thought possible that this grain may lead the procession back to normal.

"In 20 countries wheat production will apparently be three per cent less than last year," points out the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL, adding that "with 90,000,000 bushels of wheat still held by the Farm Board, to compare with 200,000,000, the quantity formerly held by the Board, and with efforts being made to get rid of the reduced hold-over, observers are hopeful of an upturn." The Oregon paper concludes: "Just as upturn of agricultural products is conventionally the first herald of returned general prosperity, so an upward move on the part of wheat usually points a more favorable way for other agricultural products. And in the meantime it is scarcely likely that the Farm Board or any other federal agency will ever again accumulate a staggering quantity of wheat in the name of stabilization, when the effect is chiefly to handicap the future."

"The Red Cross has done notably good work," says the PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER, "with the 40,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat turned over to it for relief last March. The provisions of the present proposals, allowing the wheat to be traded for any sort of food and the cotton to be traded for finished cotton products, would widen the scope of the relief work possible. But from an economic viewpoint, the removal of virtually all the Farm Board wheat from the threatening position it was held over the market for the last two years would be of primary importance. A year ago the world held 257,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat, a decided factor in the movement of grain prices. With that removed and the 1932 wheat crop one of the smallest in ten years, prices undoubtedly would resume their natural movement this fall, and that movement presumably would be upward."

"When is a crop failure a crop failure?" asks the HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH, with the comment: "The answer is in a year like this, when the yield of winter wheat, according to Government reports, will be 411,000,000 bushels, 366,000,000 bushels less than last year. Only twice in recent years has the crop been smaller."

This ought to be beneficial to the growers, rather than detrimental, for it promises a rise in the price of grain instead of the reduction to ruinous figures that would have resulted from another bumper crop. With Congress planning another distribution of stored wheat to feed the needy and the Government endeavoring to finance the sale of more grain abroad, next winter may see the country rested to something like a normal basis with respect to wheat in storage, with resultant benefits to the farmer and everybody else.

"The surplus of the world are eating up the surplus," observes the OMAHA WORLD HERALD. That paper voices the judgment: "There is no danger of a wheat famine, but there is evidence that the surplus is moving downward toward a normal quantity. In the meantime the prospect is for a short crop not only in our own but in some of the other surplus producing wheat countries. So far these signs have had no effect upon our domestic market. A market reporter ascribes some of its weakness to the uncertainty which prevails over what the farm board may do. But this uncertainty cannot operate as a depressing factor indefinitely. If it becomes fairly apparent that the world has taken a notion to eat more wheat the market soon or late is going to be affected by that fact."

"Five states which produced 440 million bushels of wheat last year," records the ALBANY KNICKERBOCKER PRESS, "are not expected to produce more than 150 million bushels this year. This shortage in crop is predicted in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Nebraska and the two Dakotas. Unfavorable weather is the cause. Dry and windy days have predominated. The best field, it is reported from Dodge City, promise only 14 to 15 bushels to the acre, while last year it ran to 20 or 25 bushels. Many fields, it is said, will return not more than 6, 8 or 10 bushel yields—scarcely enough to pay for putting the combines into the harvest. But there is a large carry over from last year that still remains on the farms. The holders will not be inclined to sell at present offers. It is said they realize there will not be a surplus and the last year's crop will be in demand. In the face of impending crop failure their position seems a natural one to take. If there should be any special demand for American and Canadian wheat abroad, the price would certainly rise to profitable figures."

"The Red Cross can use that wheat for food," declares the HOUSTON CHRONICLE "and can make an arrangement with the cotton mills of the country so that the cotton turned over to them can be manufactured into garments for those in need. The agency for distributing this food and clothing is one which has the utmost trust and confidence of the American people." Describing the method of distribution, the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN states that "Federal handling of free wheat has put to constructive use a frozen Farm Board asset" while "government largesse has not trodden painfully on the loss by private business, and its distribution has been accomplished in a co-operative spirit without complaint of injustice or waste." The Spokane SPOKESMAN REVIEW quotes the Canadian wheat pool and the United States Department of Agriculture to the effect that there is "increasing stability in the world wheat situation." The WALL STREET JOURNAL advises: "Let us give the trade free hand to dispose of the large surplus that will be on hand at the beginning of the crop year—July 1—even if the new crop is as small as now expected. That surplus must be removed before we can expect the wheat market to improve materially." The BALTIMORE SUN draws the conclusion: "Whether the price of wheat in the United States will crash through the many artificial path and attain a level which would seem to be in order as a result of the curtailment of production remains to be seen. At any rate, what happens along this line is certain to have both large economic and political significance."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

UNAMERICAN? HUH!

Railroad grade crossing in Ireland are not the menace to motorists they are over here. Every such crossing is guarded by a watchman through the daytime. At dark a big iron gate on either side of the railway is swung across the roadway and padlocked. Pedestrians can get through but no vehicles. Motorists traveling after dark must go to the watchman's house nearby and have him unlock the gates before they can pass through.

American motorists wouldn't stand for that even if several thousand of them are killed that way every year.

Gene Tunney Nearly Mobbed By Autograph Hunters In Chicago

Democratic Presidential Candidates Suffer Setback As Former Champ Arrives

Six-Hundred Air Pilots Are Asking Plank Giving Them Chance To Fight In War

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Copyright, 1932, By International News Service
CONVENTION STADIUM, Chicago, June 27—Hello Everybody. Temperature here, 142 degrees, without the seven million candle-power spot-lights on Chairman John J. Raskob.

But what's heat to Democrats? One of the old regulars from down state just pulled out his red bandana, mopped his face and said: "Heat makes corn, corn makes whiskey and whiskey makes Democrats."

Delegates Wondering
That's what all that sea of delegates and spectators out there are wondering about.

Wondering whether this is going to be a near-beer, light wines, gin fizz, champagne or soda water decision.
Wondering whether or not these Democrats will go the Republicans one better on the liquor plank, waiting to see whether the grand old party of Jefferson, Jackson and Cleveland and Wilson goes wetter than the Republicans did, or straddle six ways instead of three.

Haven't heard much yet about anything in store for ten million jobless people and their fifty million dependents.

And nothing at all about keeping up the national defense when all the rest of the world is handing Hoover's emissaries in Europe and Japan the raspberry.

Pilots Ask Favor
Six hundred airplane pilots—pilots of air liners—cream of American aviation—each with more than three thousands hours to their credit, are represented here. They're asking for a plank giving them a chance to be a reserve force in case of war. Otherwise they're just factory hands.

Boys and girls, this was a lone-some town yesterday.
Rumor got around that the Tammany Tiger was loose. Those morning newspaper boys said Frank Roosevelt was the only tiger tamer in the whole flock of presidential candidates.

So there was a huddle of forlorn hopes in the Congress Hotel. Dress-up candidates all hoping to snag a few of those fifty-eight delegates. Jim Ham Lewis turned loose when he took his whiskers out of the scrimmage.

Button-Holing
Well, those favorites sons and big shots in the presidential race were button-holing everybody who came along. Just like old aldermanic clam-bake. Back to the old style of campaigning.

And then, by jingo, all the crowds gathered around the presidential impossibilities, turned tail and ran down Peacock Alley after a young fellow, who had just climbed out of a taxicab with a lot of baggage.

Well, sir, it was my old friend, Gene Tunney.
Delegates unhooked their badges and hung them on Gene's coat. Lady Democrats had their handkerchiefs and white leather handbags and their convention tickets autographed and Gene dogged near got kissed by gals from fourteen states and—

Well, Gene just spoiled Sunday afternoon for the presidential also-rans.
Gene's here at the ringside for International News Service.
Hope the presidential candidate wins by an undisputed count.

Two weeks from today, on July 11, President-elect William J. Caldwell and his new staff of officers and committeemen will assume the club's responsibilities in a formal installation ceremony. The new chief will be handed the presidential gavel and his year of office will have started.

Caldwell, chosen a delegate to Rotary's international convention at Seattle just a few days after his election as president, was on the western edge of the continent today enjoying that convention trip. He will return in about a week.

Committee Report
Retiring President Round's committee chairmen offered their final reports today after the president had spoken. Every chairman summarized the work of his committee, and all reported progress.
Officers who will take office on the 11th with Attorney Caldwell are J. P. Rentz, vice president; Carl E. Paisley, secretary; F. L. Orth, treasurer, and R. W. Bolsinger, Dr. C. F. McDowell and Dr. R. C. Lutz, directors.

Wife Permits Professor Piccard To Go Aloft Again In Balloon

(International News Service)
BRUSSELS, June 27.—My wife won't let me," has failed to keep Professor Piccard, hero of the stratosphere, down to earth.
He hopes to rise higher than ever, beating his own record of 16,000 feet either in the latter part of June or late in July.
The most difficult problem preparatory to the flight for him has been overcoming Mrs. Piccard's objections. International News Service learns.
Difficulties with a safety valve in the balloon nearly turned the professor's first historic ascension into a tragedy, and he has a wife and four children.
Professor Piccard, upon his safe landing, promised never to leave terra firma again. Then he started organizing an expedition for one of his disciples, Max Cosyn, a professor of physics.
A new spherical "basket" of aluminum was built. The "bag" of the first expedition is still airworthy.
Cosyn needed an assistant. No one with "stratospheric" qualifications could be found.
Having supervised all the details of a scientist to see his own record broken, Professor Piccard's enthusiasm was at the highest pitch.
He turned once more to his wife and made the appeal. "You may go," she said.
The ascension will probably be made near Zurich.
Over in England they support broadcasts by a tax on receiving sets instead of patience.

Million Attend Final Eucharistic Mass In Dublin, Ireland, Sunday

Thirty-First International
Eucharistic Congress Is Brought To Close

Pilgrims From All Parts Of World Begin Long Journeys Homeward

(International News Service)
DUBLIN, June 27.—The 31st international eucharistic congress was ended today, closed by probably the largest meeting of its kind ever held in Christendom, a pontifical high mass attended by a throng of worshippers officially estimated at one million persons.

Pilgrims from throughout the world began their homeward journeys, while a comparative handful, including most of the high church dignitaries, remained for the lord mayor's from Vatican City by radio, conclude the mass with a benediction which followed a brief Latin message. A complete hush followed the announcement "the holy father will speak to you," and although atmospheric conditions marred the reception a few were able to catch the pope's words clearly.

Monsignor Michael J. Curley, archbishop of Baltimore, celebrated the mass, over which Cardinal Lorenzo Lauri, papal legate to the congress, presided.

Following the mass there was another demonstration equally expressive of the great devotion held by this multitude of Catholics, a solemn procession to O'Connell Bridge, five miles distant in the center of Dublin.

Platform Makers Have Plenty Of Own Troubles

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff

CHICAGO, June 27.—An unofficial resolution committee, deadlocked over farm relief, unemployment and prohibition planks, was to be replaced today by an official group named by the Democratic convention to write the 1932 platform.

The fights over farm and unemployment relief planks actually overshadowed the prohibition plank. The platform writers were ready to "propose" repeal of the 18th amendment, but a few members of the inner group were holding out for a plank pledging the party to outright repeal.

Will Hear Views
There were indications the "committee of nine" chosen unofficially to draft a tentative platform would call in party leaders today to air their views on farm and unemployment relief. Mayor Frank Murphy and Father Charles S. Coughlin of Detroit were waiting to give their views on unemployment relief.

The prohibition plank remained a bone of contention, and contrary to reports, no plank has been decided upon. The followers of Governor

Adams Promotes Airmail Pickup Device At Chicago

Airmail And Express Delivery Service Planned On Chicago Route

According to information received from Chicago, Dr. Lytle S. Adams, inventor of an airmail pickup device which was tried out in New Castle last year, and which operated for several weeks, is promoting a similar venture in the Chicago district.

Adams invention has been given the indorsement of the Chicago Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, and plans are under way for a 300-mile air mail and express delivery service to radiate out of Chicago.

The device worked successfully when tried out here, but financial difficulties forced the termination of the venture here, and the apparatus stood out in the field at the New Castle airport for some time before it was finally removed.

WHO PAYS THE RENT?

Each time you make a purchase at any high rent store you pay a part of that rent; you pay a part of the salaries of the executives; you help to pay the higher taxes the city levies against stores in high rent locations. These factors, folks, are known as "overhead"! And the cost of overhead is figured in the selling price of every article a store sells!

But here at Fisher's Big Store you won't pay for an exorbitant overhead. We're located out of the high rent district... we own our building... we have no high salaried executives... it is a "one-man" store, owned and controlled and managed by Mr. A. Fisher.

Folks, this all means but one thing: LOWER PRICES THAN YOU'LL FIND ELSEWHERE! This, briefly, is the reason why we are the leading furniture store in this section... why we do such a tremendous volume of business. In these days when every one of us must make our dollars buy the utmost in value, it is important to remember that Fisher's Big Store prices are always lower.

Patterson Asks Ohio Supreme Court To Act

New Castle Man Asks That Ohio Court Annul Verdict In Case

(International News Service) COLUMBUS, O., June 27.—Claiming that the Wayne county courts had no jurisdiction to render judgment against him, Elmer R. Patterson, of New Castle, Pa., asked the Ohio Supreme Court to annul the $4,675 damage award made by the common pleas court of that county against him and in favor of Paul MalCuit.

MalCuit was sitting in a field alongside a highway in that county August 12, 1930, when the auto driven by Patterson collided with a car driven by Hester Kilcrease White. Patterson's car leaving the road and hitting MalCuit.

Attorneys for Patterson claimed that summons was illegally served on Patterson by the Wayne county authorities because he maintained his residence at New Castle while temporarily teaching at Campbell, Mahoning county.

They argued that summons could only be served on Patterson in his home county.

The Wayne county appellate court affirmed the decree of the trial court.

Mantz Leaves For Kiwanis Conclave

Local Club Secretary, Wife Drive To Convention At Detroit

Alderman L. C. Mantz, delegated by the New Castle Kiwanis club as its representative at this week's 16th annual Kiwanis International convention at Detroit, left over the week end by motor for the Michigan city. Mrs. Mantz is accompanying her husband to the conclave.

Mantz's the club's secretary was chosen alternate when President C. M. England, delegate, and D. B. Reebel, regular alternate, found it impossible to attend.

The business sessions of the convention opened today in the city where Kiwanis received its start back in January, 1915, so the thousands of delegates attending the sessions consider their trip a pilgrimage back to the birthplace.

Joseph G. Pance, of Detroit, whom Kiwanis honors as the first Kiwanian, welcomed the delegates today. William O. Harris, Kiwanis' international president, in his first address, assured the delegates of the soundness of the organization. A past international president, Henry C. Heinz, of Atlanta, also spoke today.

The convention will last until Thursday. Nearly all of the 1,887 clubs of the organization are represented.

THE ARTIST blends colors. The cigarette maker blends tobaccos. The artist must use just the right amount of each color to get a pleasing effect. And the cigarette blender must use just the right amount of the right kinds of tobacco to get a better and more pleasing taste. Both must know how!

The right BLEND...

the right BALANCE

A "balanced" blend... the right Domestic and Turkish tobaccos in the right amounts... blended in a different way... "welded" together.

That's the Chesterfield Cross-Blend... an important reason why Chesterfields are milder and taste better.

It isn't just taking the tobaccos and mixing them hit-or-miss.

The Chesterfield Cross-Blend makes one type or one variety of tobacco partake of the qualities of another. It "welds" together all that is best in each variety.

It's a balanced blend in the truest sense... giving you what really amounts to a new kind of tobacco... Chesterfield tobacco... milder, more fragrant, better-tasting.

In the case of the Burns Mortgage company, use of Ruth V. Greenberg against Oliver Hoch, Judge R. L. The case is based on two notes for $1,250 each given by defendant to the Titum Mortgage company at Miami, Fla., on June 1, 1925. The Titum company assigned them to A. G. Veach and Veach transferred the notes to the Burns Mortgage company, by whom they were assigned to Ruth V. Greenberg.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES, International News Service Staff Correspondent

STADIUM, CHICAGO, June 27.—The challenge flung down by the Republicans here two weeks ago to go to the country on the record of the Hoover administration was picked up by the Democrats today in the opening session of their turbulent convention.

In ringing tones, the convention keynoteur, Senator A. W. Barkley of Kentucky, proclaimed the Democrats' willingness to fight out the campaign of '32 on the record of the past three years of economic stress, for which he held President Hoover and the Republican party almost solely responsible.

Recommend Repeal
Taking cognizance of the Democratic drift, Barkley, a life-long dry, recommended on prohibition that congress pass a resolution repealing the 18th amendment to the constitution, and that this be substituted to the states for ratification by state constitutional conventions "whose delegates shall be chosen upon this issue alone."

"If the people are to pass again upon this question," he proclaimed, "let them pass upon it in such bald, naked and unequivocal terms as to make their decision intelligent and certain."

"If their verdict shall be in favor of retaining the 18th amendment let every true citizen accept the decision and abide by it in letter and spirit."

Scores Re-submission
"If the verdict shall be for repeal, then let every branch of the national government exercise all their powers to protect the states in the observance and enforcement of the laws they shall enact to control, regulate or prohibit the traffic in intoxicating liquors."

This came after Barkley had described the Republican prohibition plank as "a promiscuous agglomeration of scrap-wood which defies definition."

Democrats traditionally are fond of oratory, and Barkley fed them bountifully.

It was a speech of more than two hours, and probably no government ever took a more terrific lacing than the Kentuckian handed the administrations of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

Reviews History
With that as his text, he then proceeded to review the whole history of the past twelve years. He described the Harding administration as "an era of debauchery," the Coolidge regime as a period of government-fostered speculation. But he saved his biggest guns for the Hoover administration, which he pictured as a period of "broken promises" and "ineptitude in government" which has brought the country to its present plight.

He pictured Mr. Hoover as vacillating, weak, contradictory and unwilling to assume the responsibility that is his.

"When faced with unpleasant facts and conditions," he said, "the policy has been to cross the street or appoint a commission. We are the only nation in the world now living under the commission form of government."

Tariff Reforms
Return the Democrats to power, Barkley promised, and they will make such reforms in tariff and banking legislation as will bring the country out of the economic morass into which it has floundered.

Through the Hoover-Grundy tariff act and the "perversion of the federal reserve system."

The plight of the American farmer, "deceived by twelve years of Republican promises," the widespread unemployment, the loss of foreign trade—all these are other ills Barkley attributed to the Republican law. The loose administration of the banking laws, and the orgy of speculation which he said was directly stimulated by the last two administrations.

Five-Day Week
On unemployment, he proposed the inauguration of the five-day week or the six hour day on a national scale.

"If a permanent condition has been reached," he declared, "in which all the people may work three-fourths of the time or three-fourths of them all the time, then there is but one course left in justice to all the people."

Country Mis-Managed
Nothing is wrong with this country, he concluded, except that "it has been mis-managed, exploited, and demoralized," and there is nothing wrong with its people except that "they have followed prophets who were false, blind and insensitive to their limitations."

"The people in every great crisis have turned to the democratic party for leadership—it will be so this year."

Maybe there would be crime if guns were outlawed, but people wouldn't stick their hands in the air to watch it.

Picturesque Sidelights On The Democratic Political Circus

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, popular presidential candidate, sheds his coat and goes to work at his headquarters.

Just what did the governor of North Carolina say to the governor of South Carolina? Gov. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina is shown in deep conversation at Chicago with Gov. Ibra Blackwood of South Carolina, two ardent Democrats.

Representative Samuel Rayburn of Texas, a campaign manager for Speaker John Garner, is the busiest man at Garner's headquarters.

Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic keynoteur, poses for the cameraman with Mrs. Barkley. A former judge and congressman, the senator is regarded as a conservative Democrat. He is a supporter of Governor Roosevelt.

Mrs. Nell Q. Donnelly of Kansas City, whose kidnapping attracted wide attention a few months ago, is a Missouri delegate.

Little Boy Runs In Front Of Auto

Police Hear Of A Number Of Accidents On Streets Of The City

John Audia, 11 Division street, was enroute east on Croton avenue, Sunday, in front of 1000 6th avenue, when Edward Grimes, aged 6, of that address, ran out from behind another automobile in front of the Audia car.

The front bumper of the car hit the little boy and knocked him to the street. He was picked up and taken to the office of a physician, where it was found that he had escaped serious injury.

Rev. Clarence Westover of 101 West Leasure avenue, was enroute west on East Washington street, Sunday, as a car bearing Pennsylvania license 77522 going in the same direction, drove to his left and made a left hand turn into a gasoline service station. The car hit and damaged the Westover machine.

Steven C. Miles, of 827 Addis street, was enroute west on East Washington street as Frank Crisell pulled out from the curb and damaged his car.

D. R. McKee of 711 South Mill street, reported Saturday that he was enroute west on Shaw street with his ice truck, when it got away from him and ran into a telephone pole at East street. The truck was damaged, but Mr. McKee escaped injury.

F. R. Bozell, 414 Denver avenue, was enroute north on South Mill street at the P. & L. E. crossing, when the watchman let the machine down on the radiator of his machine without warning, causing some damage.

Scott Cox of 1006 Woodlawn avenue, was driving the truck of the New Castle Grocery company east on South Croton avenue with Edmund Daltorio, 914 South Mill street to his rear and going in the same direction. There were cars parked on each side of the street and a car coming west blocked the way, so that Cox stopped and the Daltorio car hit and damaged the rear of his machine.

denied it, but the rumors persisted nevertheless. It is pretty difficult for them to do it at this late date, for they went out far on the limb Saturday with the positive declaration that "this thing (abrogation) has got to be done now and it is going to be done."

The Roosevelt leaders, however, are finding they can't hold their lines in the rules fight. Indiana and Iowa furnished but two examples of this. Both states are predominantly for Roosevelt but they are going to cast their ballots solidly for retention of the two-thirds rule. There are numerous other defections on this fight.

Stadium Slow in Filling.
As usual, the stadium was slow in filling. Realizing that today's program was largely perfunctory and only to dispose of the necessary preliminaries, the delegates took their time about arriving. Some of them cut it altogether.

When the solitary figure of Gov. "Alfalfa" Bill Murray of Oklahoma himself a candidate, stalked into the arena 15 minutes before gavel time only about a third of the seats were filled, and the galleries yawned in comparative emptiness.

There was a smattering of applause as Gov. Albert C. Ritchie's loyal Marylanders moved in bearing placards "We will win with Ritchie."

The loyal Marylanders have by no means given up hope that if and when the deadlock occurs their handsome governor may prove to be the man on horseback. The same thought pervades the hearts of all the other supporters of favorite sons.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi who is sponsoring a compromise on the rules fight and otherwise trying to conciliate matters, moved about the floor with Senator Jimmy Brynes of South Carolina, talking to the delegates and preserving at least an outward belief that "everything is going to turn out all right."

Notable Arrive
Five minutes before noon, the platform began to fill up with the party notables—National Chairman John J. Raskob and his aide, Jouett Shouse, who is having a desperate battle for the permanent chairmanship with the Roosevelt forces, Joe Tumulty, former secretary to Woodrow Wilson; members of the national committee; senators and congressmen. But there were still great yawning spaces on the floor and in the galleries.

As during the Republican convention which moved out two weeks ago, the great pipe organ, said to be one of the largest in the world, and two hands vied with one another in piping the delegates into their seats.

One of the numbers they rendered several times was "Happy Days". Up to date there haven't been many "happy days" for the Democrats in Chicago. They have been too busy battling.

Stadium Is Furnace.
The stadium was again a furnace and made more so by reason of the fact that the photographers won their battle to retain the great Kleig lights which made everyone so uncomfortable during the Republican convention.

Every time some notable would appear on the front of the platform they would turn those great dazzling eyes on him while the cameras clicked and everybody sweated.

ed favorite son. They felt if they could eliminate just one more of the favorite sons, as Senator Lewis eliminated himself Saturday, they would create a victory psychology among the delegates that would result in a landslide.

But Missouri was still standing behind Reed this morning. They voted in a stormy caucus to stick to Reed until he released them, and Reed himself said, "I do not expect to release the delegation."

Illinois Is Pivotal
Another concentration point of the Democratic managers was Illinois. Since its break-up Saturday, they have striven desperately to win over Mayor Tony Cermak's Cook county delegates. They already have some 20-odd of the downstate delegates, but as the convention met the Chicago mayor was proving an adamant customer. His votes are going first to Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker.

STATE DELEGATION AT CHICAGO IS FOR OUTRIGHT REPEAL

favor of abrogating the two-thirds nominating rule. Again the issue was clear cut, with Gregg standing for abolition and Whitmer in opposition.

Although the Pennsylvania delegates split over the question of whom to nominate for the presidency, when the time came to convene in the stadium it was evident they were united for outright repeal of the 18th amendment and modification of the Volstead act.

The ever disturbing prohibition question provoked a short but bitter controversy within the delegation when Gregg moved to strike from the repeal resolution the section instructing Guy K. Bard of Lancaster to prepare a minority report unless the platform pledged the party to outright repeal.

Judge John H. McCann of Ebensburg jumped to his feet at the conclusion of Gregg's speech and loudly denounced the latter's motion.

Denounces Motion.
"The time for hypocrisy and pussy-footing is past," he shouted. "This delegation should have the courage to go on record as being absolutely in line with Judge Niles' resolution so that the whole Democratic party of the country can have a chance to pass on it."

McCann was interrupted from time to time by wild applause, and the Gregg motion finally was voted down by a roar of "no's."

The delegation then selected Winfield Amarell of Birdsboro to represent Pennsylvania on the permanent organization committee and Charles D. McAvoy as permanent chairman of the delegation.

As an indication of their sincerity on the prohibition question the delegation pledged itself to carry the fight for outright repeal to the floor of the convention in the event that the party platform fails. The pledge to declare the party in favor of outright repeal was voted upon and carried unanimously. It included that the Pennsylvania delegation should instruct its representative on the platform committee, Guy K. Bard of Denver, to prepare a minority report unless the platform contains an outright repeal plank.

The entire delegation expressed its sentiment for a winning wet plank with wild enthusiasm when Judge Henry C. Niles of York moved the adoption of three resolutions placing the delegates on record in favor of outright repeal and modification of the Volstead act and against further appropriations for federal enforcement of prohibition.

A fourth resolution was introduced to insure the carrying out of the foregoing sections and was automatically adopted when the delegation voted down a motion to lay it on the table. The latter motion was introduced by T. Z. Minehart of Chambersburg, who opposed the resolution that the Democratic congressional candidates are admonished to pledge their votes and their sincere efforts to the fulfillment of the policies outlined in the other three resolutions.

Strawberry Jam MADE IN 12 MINUTES

10:00 PUT ON TO BOIL 10:12 IN THE GLASSES

BY Mrs. C. B. Osborne, CHAMPION IOWA JELLY MAKER

"IN the last 5 years my jams and jellies have won 83 prizes at the Iowa State Fair. And the Certo short-boil jelly making method deserves most of the credit."

"Certo, first of all, reduces boiling time to one minute for crushed strawberry jam, for instance. And this fact explains both the speed and economy of the Certo method of making jam or jelly, as well as the quality of the product that results."

"For with only 1 minute's hard boiling needed, 12 minutes is ample time to make a full batch of prize-winning jam or jelly. And since no fruit juice has time to boil away, I often save as much as 2½¢ per glass over jam or jelly made the old long boil way."

"And my Certo-made jam tastes better, too... simply because the short boil keeps the ripe, delicate flavor of the fruit itself from boiling away in wasteful steam."

Why don't you do as Mrs. Osborne suggests and order a supply of Certo today—with your strawberries? You will be delighted at the time and money it will save you. And the extra flavor it will give your jams and jellies, too... if you will follow carefully the Certo recipes that come in the booklet attached to every Certo bottle. Pittsburgh Pirates Climax Great Stand By Taking First Place

CARDINALS AND CUBS DIVIDE

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 27—The spectacular sport of the Pittsburgh Pirates from last place to first in the sizzling national league race recalls the great upset of 1914 when George Stallings' Boston Braves climbed from the cellar to the penthouse in one sustained drive.

The 1914 Braves were built around three star pitchers and a double-jointed outfield. The Pirates today also are built around three great stars—Pie Traynor and the Brothers Wanner—plus a corking pitching staff.

Six Runs In Ninth
Pittsburgh doesn't score many runs but makes them all count. And they never give up until the last man has been retired. Such was the case yesterday when Geo. Gibson's men scored six runs in the ninth inning of the second of their games with the Reds to win by a 9 to 5 count.

The Cubs extended their winning streak to six games. In the opener Larry French handuffed the Reds. Yielding only four hits and not permitting any Cincinnati player to reach second base, Pittsburgh won 5 to 0.

Chicago relinquished the lead to the Pirates by getting no better than a Mexican stand-off in a twin bill with the Cardinals. A double by pinch hitter Jimmy Reese in the ninth gave St. Louis the opener 4 to 3. The Cubs took the nightcap by the same score with Charley Root besting Dizzy Dean.

Phils-Braves Split
Two other double-headers also resulted in an even break. Ed Holley pitched the Phils to a 5 to 1 decision over the Braves after Boston had won the opener, 5 to 4. Thanks to Bobby Brown, relief pitcher, who struck out five.

Wes Ferrell chalked up his thirteenth triumph by beating the Browns 10 to 5, but St. Louis shaded Cleveland in the nightcap 6 to 5.

Washington passed Philadelphia and took third place in the American league by polishing off the Red Sox, 8 to 4, while the A's were absorbing another beating by the Yankees, 6 to 2.

Detroit kept pace with the Yankees, downing the White Sox 5 to 1 through good pitching by Vic Sorrell.

Manager Bill Terry's homer with one on base failed to help the Giants as Carl Hubbell lost a pitching duel to Lefty Clarke, 5 to 2.

Mahoning Cubs Top Flats 5-1

Mahoning Cubs topped the Clifton Flats team 5 to 1 in a game played at the E. and A. field Saturday. Tommelio on the mound for the Cubs allowed but four hits and had three strikeouts. E. Hiler was the pitcher for the Clifton Flats team and was found for seven hits. Tommelio in addition to pitching a fine game hammered out a home run. Compello and Hiler also hit the ball hard.

Trading Community Displays Waiting Attitude And Marks Time

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 27.—The stock market continued under the influence of continued uncertainties today and worked irregularly lower.
New bear market lows were reached in American Can, Atchafon and Allied Chemical. U. S. Steel common and preferred and Du Pont, American Telephone duplicated its low.
Oil stocks were supported by the increase in California crude prices but were able to make little progress on the upside. A further advance in wheat aided the farm implement and machinery shares but here, too, the dominating influence was the reactionary trend in the entire market.
Auburn ran into early selling and dropped more than two points. Scattered liquidation sent General Motors back to its old low. Rails showed an easy tone and announcement of the new loan to the N. Y. Central passed without effect.
The trading community continued to display a waiting attitude and marked time pending developments in Lausanne and Chicago. Bonds were steady with rails showing some irregularity. Better tone in wheat was duplicated by cotton and sugar.

Elaborate Church Wedding Joins Local Business Man With New Castle Girl

ELLWOOD CITY, June 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mitchell of New Castle announce the marriage of their daughter, Mildred Irene, to Paul Grannis of Wayne avenue, Ellwood City, Saturday, June 25.

The wedding took place in the First M. E. church, with Rev. Robert Long officiating in charge. The couple were married under an elaborate bower of roses and fern near the chancel, with the bride's father giving her away.

She was lovely in trailing white satin and carried an arm bouquet of tany and valley lilies. Pennell Snyder of Pittsburgh, maid of honor, wore forget-me-not blue and white and carried peach roses.

The bride's mother wore blue chiffon in harmony with the color effect. Frank Mitchell, the bride's brother was best man. Mrs. Roland Haines was organist, playing appropriate music throughout the ceremony.

Pink and white was used effectively in the church dining room, with the table appointments in white and long white tapers in crystal sticks. Offset by clusters of roses forming a chain through the table center. Little brides and grooms completed the attractive decoration. The dinner was served the thirty guests by the Friendship Circle class of the Sunday school.

The guests repaired from the church to the Grannis home in Wayne avenue where they held an informal reception, after which Mr. and Mrs. Grannis left for New York City.

Mrs. Grannis is a graduate of New Castle high school, Beaver and Westminster colleges and has taken an active part in New Castle music circles. Mr. Grannis is well known in Ellwood, having owned and operated a cleaning establishment for the past twelve years.

They will make their home in Wayne avenue.

Convention Closes Saturday Noon

ELLWOOD CITY, June 27.—The delegates of Trinity Lutheran church of Ellwood City to the convention of the Pittsburgh Synod of the Lutheran church, Pastor Christiansen and Mr. A. W. Richards returned Saturday afternoon.

The convention was well attended and reflected a determination of the church to carry on its work in spite of the difficulties resulting from the depression.

The budget of Synod, including almost every item of the work, was drastically cut to accommodate finances to the present income of the Synod, but no part of the work has been seriously hampered.

The plan for the state-wide merger of the Lutheran church, uniting six synods into three according to geographic lines, was tabled for a year, in the hope that a better understanding of the problems involved would create a more widespread sentiment in its favor.

Beneficiary aid to students for the ministry was curtailed in so far that no freshmen at college this year will receive financial aid, although such assistance will be continued to those already at the college and the seniors.

Synod closed on Friday evening with a solemn ordination service during which the sermon was delivered by the Rev. G. Elmer Swoyer, of Pittsburgh, who pleaded for an elimination of fads in religion, and return to the preaching and practice of biblical, spiritual and sober religion.

Scientists Gauge Fluctuations In Mackerel Fishing Industry

(International News Service)
WOODS HOLE, Mass., June 27.—The question perplexing fishermen—why mackerel come in billions one year and are scarce the next—has been solved and brings to an end the gamble in that branch of the fishing industry.

Natural causes, such as the failure of larvae to mature, a salinity of water not conducive to hatching, changes in temperature in the water at the time eggs are deposited, were the reason for the fluctuations in the size of the mackerel catch.

The clearing up of the mystery was accomplished by Uncle Sam's scientists aboard the husky sea-going tug, Albatross II, in co-operation with government experts at the Harvard Biological Institute and the fisheries bureau at Washington.

From Cape May to the south to Cape Cod to the north, the Albatross II wended her way, while her youthful scientists aboard made countless experiments and took thousands of samples in the two-year investigation.

O. E. Sette, scientist, and crew of 26 aboard the tug, were under the guidance of Biologist W. C. Harrington. Fifty scattered stations were maintained at which temperature readings at various levels, larvae samples and other data were compiled. Self-opening and closing bottles were used in obtaining the temperature of the water at various levels.

Fluctuations of the mackerel catch have ranged from as low as 4,000,000 pounds in 1910 to 120,000,000 pounds in 1884.

But the experiments conducted now give officials data on which to make prophecies of about how many pounds will be caught the following year. For instance the Department of Commerce bulletin of May 2, 1932, estimated this year's probable catch at 26,000,000 pounds. Thus fishing is carried on in full acceptance of this prophecy. Last year's forecast was predicted in a similar manner and was very close to the actual total poundage taken.

A thousand facts relative to the history of the food fish is being catalogued by scientists. Once it was a mystery where scup, sea bass and other species went in the winter, but the scientists of the Albatross II proved the winter forced the fish to meander to the southern waters.

One problem confronts the investigators. That is to determine if winter fishing for those species of fish in southern waters has an appreciable effect on the supply found in northern waters in the summer.

Northwest Wars Against Horde Of Grasshoppers

Campaign Starts By Destroying Egg Beds Of Pests

(International News Service)
KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., June 27.—The war is on in northern Klamath and Lake counties of Oregon and in northern California—a war on hordes of grasshoppers that annually infest this district. County Agent C. A. Henderson is leading the defenders this year and has started an early spring "push" which he hopes will find the enemy unprepared in their trenches.

Under Henderson's direction 100 fieldmen have reconnoitered the battlefield, located egg beds and planned their campaign. With this knowledge in mind workers will take mixtures of poisoned bran and spread the death-dealing food where the young hoppers will first feed.

Henderson said they would also be aided more this year by the increase of the bee fly, nature's parasite remedy against grasshoppers which has been fostered here. His report shows that more bee fly larvae have been found in the grasshopper egg beds this year than ever before. The bee fly lays its eggs in the same ground that contains the hopper eggs and the fly larvae feed on the eggs.

Last year the fly was of little help due to receding water in the marsh uncovering new egg beds with which the bee fly was unfamiliar. From five to a dozen fly larvae were found in each square foot of grasshopper egg bed, Henderson said.

Plans were under way to employ an airplane, and have it equipped, to scatter the poison bran over the egg beds.

The counties infected have raised some money to carry on the battle but efforts are being made to secure additional funds from the Indian service and from the federal appropriation of $1,500,000, which is being used throughout infested states.

Beauty And Brains Go Together

Pretty shop girls and stenographers usually are endowed with an intelligence equivalent to their looks. A group of vacationing educators discovered this at San Antonio, Tex., where they staged an impromptu intelligence contest among some attractive 2,000 salesgirls and "stenos". More than 80 per cent of those questioned scored better than 80 on the quiz. Lovely Vida Vee Insall, above, turned in a perfect paper.

Builds Miniature Locomotives Standing Only One Inch High

(International News Service)
ROCKFORD, Ill., June 27.—Fit to find a place in some Lilliputian city, five tiny steam engines, all of which can be set side by side in a 6-inch box, chug and puff in the workshop of Walter Leffingwell, retired local jeweler. These flea-power machines are the result of 35 years of painstaking effort on the part of Leffingwell who used watch makers' instruments for tools in pursuing his hobby.

The smallest of the engines is but three-quarters of an inch in height with the stroke of its valve only thirty-second of an inch long. It is so built that the owner can take it apart for repairs.

None are more than an inch and a half high, while four of them have perfectly designed "D" valves. The other one is the first made by Leffingwell 35 years ago. This one still runs smoothly.

One of the smallest of the five will run either forward or backward and at top speed averages approximately 7,000 revolutions a minute, its maker contends.

The engines, although "steam" machines, are run with compressed air because the vapor from hot water has a tendency to rust the delicate workings of the tiny works.

Leffingwell conceived the idea of making his miniature engines when he saw another machine in Racine, Wis., when he was a young man. It was advertised as the smallest steam engine in the world but the jeweler determined to make one smaller. He says he has succeeded in building the tiniest in existence.

China Approves Conscription To Enlarge Army

(International News Service)
PEIPING, June 27.—As if the present army of 2,500,000 men was not large enough, the Chinese National Government has approved a general plan of conscription whereby all males between 18 and forty will be eligible for military service in either a standing, preparatory or reserve group.

Conscription has not yet been made a law although the Legislative Yuan has approved the principles. These divide China into "army division districts" each to be subdivided into "regiment districts" with respective divisional and regimental headquarters under the Ministries of War and Home Affairs.

The principles will work out that those who have completed active service will join the preparatory group which will have fixed period of training. In war time that group will be ready for mobilization. Service in that category will be seven years for the army and six years for the navy. Passing out of the preparatory group, citizens will be enrolled in the reserve for eight years of the army and six of the navy.

Conscription would be less popular in China than anywhere else in the world. The traditional Chinese social grouping made no place for the soldier. It was not an honorable profession although generals and military leaders have been deified throughout many centuries of history and in present day life, warlords continue to dominate the government. However, armies and soldiers have always been looked upon by the civil population as nothing short of dreaded scourges.

Lucky Sweater Fails In Sixth Trial

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Mich., June 27.—William Hoffman, 24, is under a 7½ to 15 year term in the Detroit House of Correction today because his old charm against the law, a faded brown sweater, failed him for the first time in six trials.

The sweater, William believed won his acquittal of burglary charges four times here and once in Ann Arbor, and so became his official court attire.

At the sixth, and last trial it was the sweater's charm against the testimony of Detective Floyd Dolson who shot Hoffman during a burglary.

"Not had at that, a batting average of .833 for an old pal," William remarked as deputy sheriffs led him away.

Colorado Grazes More Cattle On Government Land

(International News Service)
DENVER, June 27.—More applications for permits to graze cattle in the 10,000,000 acres of government grazing land in Colorado have been received this year than in previous years, government officials here recently declared.

Applications for permits to graze sheep also show no decrease, according to forestry officials.

The marked increase in the number of cattle to be grazed on federal lands is attributed by forestry officials to several factors.

Fees for grazing sheep and cattle have been cut in half by the government.

Payment of these fees has been ordered deferred until December this year, permitting the stockmen to market their cattle and sheep before settling their bill with Uncle Sam.

Lower market prices for cattle are also said to have influenced many stock growers to retain animals that would otherwise have been marketed.

Married Co-Eds Mix Textbooks With Frying Pans Successfully

(International News Service)
DENVER, June 27.—Household duties can be made to mix well with scholarly pursuits and campus activities.

The brilliant records, both social and academic, of a group of married co-eds at Denver university are being quoted as proof that textbooks and frying pans can have their place in the same career.

Three married co-eds each of whom has compiled an enviable record as a student, were graduated this month.

Mrs. Anne Sunergren received a degree in chemical engineering. In addition to carrying a full schedule of studies, Mrs. Sunergren has won a membership in Kedros, senior women's honorary society. She admits, however, that husbands of married co-eds may have to forego some of the attention they might otherwise expect.

Russian Judges Tried On Charge Of Favoritism

(International News Service)
TASHKENT, Russia, June 27.—Accused of consistently pursuing a counter-revolutionary policy, a number of high officials of the Uzbekistan Republic have been put on trial here.

A special tribunal of judges from the Supreme Court of the U. S. S. R. in Moscow have arrived to handle the investigation. Ruben Katanyan, state prosecutor of the Soviet Union, is in charge.

It is charged that Uzbekistan courts have regularly favored the former ruling classes at the expense of the proletarian element. The "Beys," as the one-time princes of this region are known, are still flourishing here while in other parts of the U. S. S. R. such elements of the population have been either completely exterminated or at least reduced to complete impotence.

At the same time, the judges of Uzbekistan have handed down extremely harsh sentences against workers and peasants who came before them—sentences which ought to be reserved for members of the former exploiting classes, it is charged.

The high point of the trial so far was a parade of proletarian victims of Uzbekistan justice which marched past the tribunal exhibiting chopped off hands, ears and noses.
